News -Nexus Electronics - August 99

In our second announcement we are delighted for the management of Nexus Electronics who are now part of FutureTV inc.

We have been chairing the company up until the recent takeover and remain investors in the new operation.

The company has developed important technology in the area of video on demand technology (VOD) which is likely to be up there with the internet stocks in the near future as demand for this type of service increases in line with bandwidth availability to end users.
