Interactive Control Systems Group Formed to include Visualex and Interactive Displays - October 99

Advent have invested £1 million to consolidate the businesses of Interactive Displays, makers of touch sensitive screens for plasma, rear and front projection systems, and Visualex who provide a wide range of video conferencing and traditional projection systems.

Allied Powers has worked with the management team to create the new group and John Elsdon has been appointed Chairman.

Dave Cheesman of Advent added

““We liked the company from the start, they were small and had a really impressive product that has great potential in an interesting niche. Additional finance and the hands-on help we can offer the company will enable them to significantly accelerate their growth.”
